ICE FAMINE END IN SIGHT TODAY

Factories at Last Working to Their Full Capacity

Some of the Incidents of the Shortage for the Local Consumption.

OTHER TOWNS ALSO SUFFER.

Politics and business as subjects of conversation have been relegated to an ignominious oblivion in the family circle, and the housewife with her pitiful tale of the scarcity of ice, and the dire results to her larder, is the center of attention. The two ice distributing companies in the city awoke this morning to a situation worse than yesterday and the setback in deliveries of ice was further increased by the delay in securing the commodity at the factory.

At 3 o'clock this morning wagons began to arrive at the factory but that old maxim about the early bird getting the worm was disproven completely, as at noon today, some of the wagons were still standing at the ice chute waiting for their first load. The South Third street factory got into operation this morning and relief from the ice famine seems in prospect for tomorrow. The first street factory never stopped last night and has been in continuous operation since early Sunday morning.

Business Houses First.

Wisdom has marked the handling of the situation by the ice distributing companies. They have ignored the needs of the ordinary housekeepers until the big consumers have been partially supplied. The soda water fountains, saloons, office buildings, hotels, restaurants and other public places have been given first consideration and this has in a measure stopped any effectual protest. Of course, their telephones have not ceased to ring since the famine began from irate housekeepers, but their protest is not public and can to a limited extent be ignored until the heaviest pressure has been relieved.

Like a situation one winter in Paducah during a coal famine, the wagons have been held and ice demanded whether or not it was agreeable to the drivers. Some of the soda fountains and other public consumers, took no chances and doubled on their early morning purchases. At the offices of the ice distributing companies, the first load of ice received at the factory was unloaded so that any requests in person for ice could be met. Whenever an especially strong request for ice comes in, it is met, but not usually in full and some of the drivers had instructions to sell only a certain amount to each consumer, so that there would be enough to go around.

Allowances Cut.

It is because many consumers did not get their usual supply yesterday that the scarcity was felt today more than yesterday, with the output running along uniformly at the factory. Frozen desserts were rare in private residences yesterday both on account of the small amount of ice received and the lateness of the hour it was delivered.

Ice wagons have been forced to deliver ice whenever they can get it from the factory, and any regular schedules of delivery they formerly had have been wiped out. It has made the usual hard work much severer on the men running the wagons.

There has not been any thought of an increase in price though many consumers would gladly have paid it to get the coveted ice. Orders received at the factory from out-of-town customers are not filled until the local demand is supplied. Today in all probability will be the last of the scarcity and with the second factory running, no further inconvenience will result this summer.

Ice Famine Elsewhere.

Paducah is not the only town where the ice factory was found unprepared to meet the extraordinary demand brought about by the excessive heat, according to a director of the ice company speaking of the situation here this morning. They have telegraphed to Cairo, Mound City, Fulton, Peoria and other points near Paducah, where ice is manufactured and have found them unable to meet more than their local demands.

"We will be turning out 125 tons a day by tomorrow and there will be no ice famine at all," said a director of the company this morning. "For three days we have tried to get a full crew of laborers, either white or colored, but it has been impossible, and that has been partly responsible for the inconvenience caused. It requires 28 hours to manufacture ice,—36 to freeze it after it has been boiled,—and this extraordinary demand coming so suddenly has been handled remarkably well. Then the torn up condition of First street has made it difficult for the wagons to get their loads. Usually a wagon comes up, gets a

WEATHER FORECAST.

Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, slightly cooler tonight. Highest temperature yesterday, 100; lowest today, 76.

SMALLPOX.

Arthur, Ind., July 9.—Nineteen cases of smallpox were discovered in a settlement near here today. Five families are afflicted. Over one hundred persons were exposed and health officers are busy quarantining the place.

Owingsville, Ky., July 9.—An epidemic of smallpox prevails on Yocum creek, Morgan county. More than 30 cases are reported and refugees from the place have arrived here.

EDDY CASE.

Boston, July 9.—Leaders of the Christian church with the attorneys are meeting here today to prepare a protest to be filed with Judge Chamberlain against subjecting Mrs. Eddy to what they consider an indignity and sacrifice of examination by a lunacy commission.

INSANITY.

New York, July 9.—That the defense of Chester Runyan, who stole almost $100,000 from the Windsor Trust company part of which he spent on a woman, probably will be insanity was revealed today when Runyan, arraigned, pleaded to the indictment of grand larceny. Runyan's attorneys pleaded not guilty and were given until Monday to make any motion they desired.

TRUST BUSTING.

Oyster Bay, July 9.—"Trust busting" problems are under discussion at Sagamore Hill today. President Roosevelt's guest list includes Herbert Knox Smith, chief of the bureau of corporations, and Frank R. Kellogg, special counsel employed by the department of justice in the prosecution of big corporations.

CHEATS GALLOWS.

Lexington, Ky., July 9.—Aaron McCabe, colored, under sentence of death for the murder of Martin Clark, hanged himself in the county jail last night. He cut a rope used in holding the bunk of the cell, made a noose and attached it to a steel bar above.

BOAT CAPSIZES.

New York, July 9.—Captured in the middle of the Hudson river, three members of the crew of H. Clay Pierce's steam yacht "Yacoma," are missing and undoubtedly drowned. They tried to row to the yacht in a small boat, which capsized.

$30,000 WORTH.

Martinsville, Ind., July 9.—Thieves broke into the Big Four railroad office last night and stole $30,000 worth of tickets and took the office stamp punch also.

AMERICAN VIEW.

The Hague, July 9.—American British, Dutch and Spanish, delegates to the peace conference conferred today, regarding the bombardment of unfortified towns. Count Tornelli, of "Italy," was instructed to draft a proposition embracing the American views.

HAYWOOD CASE.

Boise, July 9.—Depositions, attacking Harry Orchard's story that he planted a bomb in the house of F. W. Bradley at San Francisco are again being read in the Haywood case today. It is expected the reading will consume the entire day. Haywood or President Meyer, of the Miners' Federation, will probably take the stand tomorrow.

reasonable load and returns in a few hours after another, but in the last three days, they have taken on all they could carry, thus delaying the other wagons. In spite of the obstacles we have met, we will be meeting all local demands and shipping to outside points tomorrow.

BOULEVARD BIDS BEING RECEIVED

Improvements on Jefferson Street Soon to Begin

Work Starts on Fountain Avenue to Be Followed on Broadway to City Limits.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSIONS.

Bids are being received from contractors on the improvement of the trackway on Jefferson street from Nineteenth street to Twenty-fifth street, according to the agreement between the traction company and the residents. The center of the street where the car track is, will be graded and filled in to make a grass plot and a concrete curb will be run down each side. The track can be crossed only at the street intersections and West Jefferson street practically will be made two streets with the park strip between.

Contractor G. W. Katterjohn also started the improvement of Fountain avenue this morning, from Broadway to Jefferson street. This block will be finished with concrete sidewalks, curbs and gutters and then Broadway from Fifteenth to Twenty-fifth street will be similarly treated.

Nineteenth Street Line.

Among the extensive improvements going on or planned for the western end of the city, all are in an advanced state except the extension of the traction company's line out Broadway to Nineteenth street, thence to Guthrie avenue and the Mayfield road. Residents in Worten's addition and that section of the city have been waiting nearly a year on the improvement, which according to the ordinance, was to have been completed and in operation within a year after its passage. In the traction company's delay in finishing the extension is placed with the city. A fill on Broadway must be widened and a culvert built by the city before a line can be completed. Meanwhile that section of the city remains the only one not served by the traction company, excepting that part of the city beyond Island creek.

The new line to Gregory Heights in the west end is being pushed and will be in operation by the time that residence district is thrown open for active building.

NEW TANNERY CO. TAKES OLD PLANT

Successor to Rehkopf Concern
Organized Today With Capital Stock of $30,000. Soon
Will be in Operation

OFFICERS OF NEW COMPANY.

Plans long considered to organize a company to take over the E. Rehkopf tannery property were consummated today, when the Paducah Tannery company, with $30,000 capital stock, practically all subscribed, was organized, and application made for articles of incorporation. There are 300 shares of $100 each.

The incorporators are: Muscoe Barnett, W. L. Bower and William Stewart. The officers are to be J. A. Bauer, president; H. A. Petter, vice-president; O. B. Starks, secretary-treasurer; William Stewart, superintendent. Mr. Stewart was superintendent for the Rehkopf company. Other stockholders are W. R. Jones, Jesse Gilbert, Ed Fagley.

The company will bond the plant, which was bought in by creditors of the bankrupt E. Rehkopf concern and buy it for $20,000. They will commence the erection of new buildings at once, and expect to be in operation in 30 days.

BODY OF A ROUSTABOUT
COMES TO THE SURFACE.

While the steamer Royal was churning the water around the north end of the wharfbank at 12:30 o'clock today, the body of Pete Cosby, the colored roustabout, who fell off the Joe Fowler and was drowned Sunday night, came to the surface. The body was pulled out of the river and Coroner Eaker had it buried without delay. Though in the water only 36 hours it was much disfigured and fish evidently had eaten part of the face.

GRAIN MARKET.
Cincinnati, July 8.—Wheat, 93; corn, 57; oats, 48 1-2.

Mr. E. H. Wilford has gone to Bowling Green, his old home, for a several days' visit.

Judge D. A. Cross Introduces The Probation System in Court

Juvenile Offenders Released on Recognizance, But Must Report to Court Every Monday About Their Conduct

ROOM CLEARED OF CHILDREN.

Although McCracken county has no juvenile court, as provided for by the last legislature, Police Judge D. A. Cross inaugurated the probation method of treating juvenile offenders, when released John Nicholson and Edgar Holland on their own recognizance, enjoining them to adopt some honest employment and report to him every Monday morning, so that he may know they are conducting themselves properly.

These two boys were arrested by Detective T. J. Moore for stealing brass fixtures, lead and nickel from a south side residence. They literally stripped it of saleable metal and were "caught with the goods on," trying to dispose of the metal to a junk dealer.

The boys, who show promise of making men of themselves, agreed to all the stipulations of Judge Cross, and were glad of the chance to redeem themselves, as they seemed to have been led into mischief by love of excitement and the bazaar.

Boys Excluded From Court Room.
Judge Cross is enforcing a rule, excluding minors from the police court room. Boys have been in the habit of sitting in the court, listening to the stories of crimes and vice recited daily on the witness stand. Judge Cross observed the daily recurrence of familiar faces, and gave the officers instructions to exclude boys hereafter.

SQUEEZING WATER OUT OF TRUSTS

Washington, July 8.—Hereafter mere injunction to restrain illegal combinations from doing business will not be enough for the government. Wherever conditions permit it is proposed to request the court to appoint a receiver to operate the business of the convicted corporation and squeeze out the water and sell the plants so as to revive competition. Tobacco and powder trusts are to be attacked first.

Will Remove Bullets.
Patrolman Sam Howell is still able to be on duty although the bullets in his shoulders give him considerable pain. Yesterday the doctors used the Roentgen rays and found that several bullets will have to be removed from the shoulders as they are against the nerves.

Sisters' Annual Retreat.
The sisters of St. Mary's academy, Fifth and Monroe streets, left for St. Vincent's academy at Uniontown, where they will take the annual retreat. They will return in ten days.

COLORED PRISONER IS INSANE BECAUSE OF HEAT

Clements Trap, colored was transferred yesterday afternoon from the city to the county jail, and tomorrow will be tried for lunacy. He was fined last week in police court and went to jail unable to pay it. He began acting queerly Saturday and yesterday was pronounced of unsound mind by physicians. It is presumed the heat caused it. Trap keeps himself stripped of all clothing and tears at his skin.

SECOND BAPTIST PROGRAM IS OUT

Eloquent Speakers and Good Singing at Dedication Exercises at the Church Next Friday Night

MANY MINISTERS TAKE PART.

Special music by the male choir of the First Baptist church will be a feature at the dedication of the Second Baptist church, Ninth and Ohio streets, Friday evening. The pastor, the Rev. L. G. Graham, has been busy on the details and today he finished the program for the evening.

Scripture reading and prayer, the Rev. Calvin M. Thompson, "Our Church and Its Origin", J. R. Puryear, "Our Church and the West Union Association", the Rev. J. R. Stewart, "Our Church and the Missions", the Rev. T. M. McGee, "Our Church as a Field", the Rev. T. B. Rouse, "Our Church and Sister Baptist Churches", the Rev. Mr. Allen.

PRINCETON STATION'S
LAWN OCCUPIES BLOCK

Princeton bids fair not only to have the prettiest lawn at a railroad station on the Illinois Central on the Louisville division, but on the whole system, according to William Keller, gardener of the Louisville division, who arrived this morning from Princeton and went to Louisville today at noon. The station and lawn at Princeton occupy a whole block and will be a big improvement for the town. Last year Mr. Keller received instructions from Chicago not to put any extra work on the old lawn as plans for a large lawn were contemplated.

Three Children Cremated.
Fond Du Lac, Wis., July 9.—Four children of Jason Field, aged three months to four years, were burned to death in a fire started by a gasoline explosion this morning.

PARTY DRIFTING IN DEAD LAUNCH

Has No Oars and Waves From Passing Steamer Wash Boat
Ashore—Picked Up Twelve
Miles Below

EXPERIENCE OF PADUCAHANS.

With dead engines and no paddles with which to reach shore, and subjected to the high waves of passing packets, fourteen young society people of Paducah were forced to drift in a gasoline launch from Brookport to Metropolis, Ill., from 7:30 o'clock until between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning.

Dr. W. C. Iverson, one of the proprietors of the Iverson & Wallace pharmacy, Seventh and Washington streets, was the host. In the party were Messrs. W. C. Iverson, Fred Wade, David Koger, Charles Cox, Guy Jones, Henry Henneberger and John Montgomery, the latter of Thomasville, Ga., a guest of the host in Paducah. Misses Lily May and Corinne Winstead, Mary Bolling, Anna Ray Conrad, of Williamston; Garnett Buckner, Frances Wallace and Ethel Brooks. They were chaperoned by Miss Bolling's sister.

An engineer and pilot were taken along and the trip to Brookport was pleasant. Turning around the course struck was for Smithland, but a series of explosions ended in the engine stopping and refusing to move. The boat drifted, turning around and around.

When Brookport was passed the headlight of the Dick Fowler, coming up from Cairo, was sighted. The fast packet passed the small boat at full speed not recognizing the distress signals.

The boat was washed ashore by waves from the steamer but was off again before any one could make fast a line.

When the lights of Metropolis were sighted, a small signal from up the river brought hope for relief. The owners of the boat, becoming alarmed at the absence of the party, due before 11 o'clock, had sent out a relief boat. The relief boat towed the launch and party back to Paducah.

Able to Sit Up.

Harry Clark, son of Fire and Police Commissioner Mann W. Clark, who is suffering from consumption in McAllister, Indian Territory, is better and able to sit up. His father telegraphed the improved condition last night.

Organize Sawdust Club.

Patrolmen Clark and Hurley are organizing what they call the "Sawdust" club. About 200 members will be secured and then a big banquet will be given. They have met with success and in a short time will have the number.

Scraper Plant Burned.

Sidney, O., July 9.—The plant of the American Scraper company, one of the largest in the United States, was burned to the ground this morning. Only a small section was saved.

ACRES OF FLAMES BY SUMMER HOMES

"Ellesley," Wallace Residence,
Threatened Today

Women and Children Fight Blaze,
While Farm Hands Plow
Furrows.

IT WAS REAL PRAIRIE FIRE

Realistic western methods were resorted to by summer residents in a fight against a prairie fire at Mr. George C. Wallace's country place in the Gregory Heights neighborhood this morning at 10:30 o'clock which for a while threatened the handsome home. Lighted matches dropped by small boys, in tall, dry grass in a field near the house, resulted in a fire that swept several acres before it was mastered, and partly burned down a fence.

Resourcefulness of the older farm hands confined the damage to that extent. Hastily hitching up teams to as many plows as could be secured, a double furrow was plowed all around the burning area and the fire was thus controlled. Then women and children, with the few male hands on the place, augmented by the other residents in the neighborhood, pulled up the grass near the double furrows and attacked the flames with sticks and buckets of water.

The dry grass burned fiercely. Every little gust of wind would give an impulse to the flames and the little band of fire-fighters more than once thought the house would be reached. The burning fence was pulled down to stop the fire in that direction and forming a wall between the fire and the house, the women, children and men beat down the fire with sticks.

No Apparatus Nor Water.

Meagre fire fighting apparatus in the neighborhood made it of the utmost importance to control the fire in the field. Not one of the handsome country homes around the Wallace place is equipped to fight a serious blaze, the extent of their facilities being fire extinguishers and buckets. The city water mains do not extend within three quarters of a mile of that neighborhood. Wells are the only source of water supply.

Had "Ellesley," Mr. Wallace's country place, burned, the "Pines," Mr. Friedman's home; "Lolomai Lodge," Mr. George Flournoy's place; "Rustle Hall," Mr. Gregory's place; "The Cabbage Patch" and Mr. R. B. Phillips' place, would have been endangered. The houses are separated by some distance, but flying sparks almost certainly would have set fire to other fields or houses. Easily $20,000 of property would have been in danger without much prospect of checking the flames.

Not only western methods were used in fighting the flames in the field, the women showed true western pluck in not creaking or calling on their husbands in the city for help. Many of the men who own the homes in the neighborhood did not learn of the danger until the fire was out. It caused the greatest excitement in the neighborhood since the homes have been built.

Mr. Robertson Seeks Rest.

Mr. Ashley Robertson, the well known leather worker and former member of the school board, was this morning adjudged of unsound mind and ordered taken to the Hopkinsville asylum. He had been ill many weeks, and his illness affected his mind. He had periods of falling memory, and realizing that he was not mentally sound, asked to be taken to some institution, where he could receive attention from experts in mental diseases.

Family Washing Stolen.

Mrs. John Cook, of Sixth and Adams streets, reports the loss of many garments from her residence Sunday. She left soiled clothes in the laundry room in the rear of the residence for the washer woman, and Monday morning found that some thief had taken every garment.

Married at Cairo.

James W. Davis and Grace Amy, of La Center, were married at Cairo yesterday.

PROF. OLDRIEVE REACHED FULTON

Prof. C. W. Oldrieve, the water-walker, was stopped at Fulton on his way to Paducah yesterday, by the Greenville, Miss., authorities, who wished to notify him of his wife's unexpected death from burns she received there last week. Prof. Oldrieve turned back to Greenville and it is not known what his future plans are, or whether he will come here in the near future.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by indigestion, chronic constipation, and the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural eliminative organs have failed to carry out. This refuse or waste matter ferments and sours, generating uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. One may also be born with a predisposition or tendency to Rheumatism, because like all blood diseases it can be transmitted from parent to child. The aches and pains of the disease are only symptoms which you may scatter or relieve with liniments, plasters, blisters, etc., or deaden with opiates. As soon, however, as such treatment is left off or there is any exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or constipation, the wandering pains, sore muscles and joints, and tender places on the flesh return, and the sufferer finds that he has merely checked the symptoms while the real cause of the disease remains in the blood. Rheumatism can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by driving the cause out of the blood. It thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. S. S. S. stimulates and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acid and corrosive matter in the muscles, joints, nerves and bones, the body is soothed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood, which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of roots, herbs and barks which possess both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. Forty of the round trip passengers brought in on the Chattanooga are taking the round trip to Evansville on the Joe Fowler and will return on that packet tomorrow. The Chattanooga will leave Wednesday at noon for Chattanooga.

The Russell Lord will arrive this evening from St. Louis, where she carried a tow of ties for the Ayer-Lord Tie company.

The Jim Duffy arrived this morning from the Cumberland river with ties and will lay up for repairs. The Ayer-Lord Tie company will send the Inverness out in the Duffy's place tomorrow, to the Cumberland river. The Russell Lord will go to the Tennessee river tomorrow after ties.

George Blitoff, second clerk on the Stacker Lee, and well known here, was married last week in Memphis.

The Clyde arrived last night from the Tennessee river with a big trip of lumber, and will leave Wednesday evening on the return trip.

Pigs are the bane of the rouster's existence. While trying to unload one this morning from the Clyde, the pig broke loose and dived headlong into the river. Coming up once the pig dived again and came up on the other side of a barge, and thence making for the shore. Alas for the pig the rousters were on hand when he struck the bank and made him captive again.

The Peters Lee will leave Memphis this evening for Cincinnati passing here Thursday. It is necessary to engage berths a week ahead on these packets now.

Captain Bewley brought the John S. Hopkins in on time today from Evansville and that packet left at noon on the return trip.

The Sallito will leave St. Louis tomorrow evening for the Tennessee river passing here Thursday evening. The Savannah will arrive Wednesday from the Tennessee river on the return trip to St. Louis.

Joe Ballard has resigned as purser on the Chattanooga and left yesterday for Louisville, where he will engage in business.

The Dick Fowler had a big wheat trip on board this morning for Cairo, and every day from now on until the close of the wheat season, will handle hundreds of sacks.

It has required several days to lift the C. M. Pate on the dry docks on account of the docks being sunk to the dry seams and allowing the water to run in about as fast as it can be pumped out. The dry seams are closing and the pumping will be more effective now.

Some little inconvenience has resulted from Broadway being closed at the wharf, but the street is rapidly nearing completion and the joy of mudless streets will more than equal the inconvenience.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt. Vernon will continue falling during the next 24 to 36 hours. At Paducah and Cairo will continue falling during the next two days.

The Tennessee from Florence to below Johnsonville will probably continue falling slowly during the next 24 to 36 hours, probably passing below two feet at Florence.

The Mississippi from below St. Louis to above Cairo will rise during the next 24 hours.

The Wabash at Mt. Carmel will remain about stationary or fall slowly during the next 24 hours.

MAKING CHANGES IN TEAM LINE UP

Independents Will be Able to Beat Everything

Henry Dicke in Box and "Big" Taylor On Second Greatly Strengthen Them.

BOOKINGS FOR THIS SEASON

With the addition of Henry (Dutch) Dicke to the pitching staff, John Hollan Independents feel confident of winning two out of three games from any team in this section. Dicke's return to the box coupled to the acquisition of "Big" Taylor on second and a change of the infield and outfield, makes the team doubly stronger.

"The first few weeks of baseball was an experiment to me," stated Manager Hollan. "I now see where my weak spots are, and am fast remedying them. I believe now, that I have arranged my players to the best advantage, and will work them steadily in their places until my team work is as perfect as possible to make it."

Hollan's Bookings.
Manager Hollan has been busy booking games. He presents the following schedule of games, all having been definitely arranged:

Waverly, Tenn., against Paducah, Sunday, August 14.
Boston Bloomer Girls against Paducah, Sunday, July 21.
Dawson Springs against Paducah, August 14-15.

Almost a Riot.

Brooklyn, July 9.—Chicago won easily from the Brooklyn team yesterday. Ill-feeling on the part of some spectators came near bringing about a riot during the closing moments of the game.

The locals had two men out in the last half of the ninth inning when some empty bottles were thrown in the direction of Captain Chance at first base from the bleachers and the open stand behind left field and first base. Chance was not hurt by any of the missiles, but as they were being thrown indiscriminately, he picked up two bottles and returned them in the direction from which they had come. One of them hit a boy on the leg and immediately there was an uproar, followed by a fusillade of bottles.

President Ebbets immediately called upon the police and they quickly quelled the disturbing element. Chance was escorted to his dressing room by detectives. When the officers had cleared the field sufficiently so that the game could be concluded Lewis landed a fly to Hoffman, who had taken Chance's place at first base. The result of the game follows:

IT'S THE SKIN, NOT THE BLOOD

Costly Error of Treatment of Skin Diseases By Internal Nostrums When the Surface Alone Should Be Healed.

If you slash your finger do you drink liniment to cure it? No, you apply the lotion to the wound, yet people are treating skin diseases constantly by dosing the stomach. Until a few years ago many doctors thought that skin diseases originated with the blood. But the application of the germ proves that skin diseases are caused by germs which lodge in the skin.

To cure the skin direct, through the skin, Dr. Decatur D. Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen and other remedial agents into a liquid called D. D. D. Prescription. He gave this to his patients and found that the eczema germs were eradicated while the healthy skin was not injured at all.

Later Dr. Dennis was prevailed upon to allow a private company in Chicago to put up this remedy in bottles. While Dr. Dennis has no direct connection with the company selling the prescription he endorsed the remedy and sanctioned the sale of D. D. D. through drug stores. Great credit is due to physicians who recommend this remedy—and there are many such physicians—when they can make so much larger fees by writing out their own prescriptions.

We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. soap and recommend these to all sufferers from skin diseases.

STOCK SEASON AUSPICIOUSLY INAUGURATED AT PARK.

"Other People's Money" Is Bill, Which Large Audience Enjoyed Last Night.

Opening of the stock company season at Wallace Park Casino last night in the admirable comedy "Other People's Money" was greeted with large audience, which testified to the popularity of that form of amusement in Paducah, and the satisfactory character of its presentation. Moving pictures are now free, being shown on the hill, where people may witness them from the breeze swept lawn. The same bill is repeated tonight.

TWO VACANCIES FILLED BY BOARD

Police and Fire Commissioners Elect

Orders Issued to Keep All Unattached Vehicles Off Streets of Paducah.

HUMANE OFFICER JAP TONER.

George Starrett, patrolman, and James Williams, fireman, were appointed, police powers were taken from Watchman E. E. Holt and conferred on a humane officer, Jap Toner, and a sweeping order was made to clear the streets of all vehicles with no horses attached by the board of fire and police commissioners last night. The meeting was held at J. K. Bonds' drug store and Commissioners Bonds, Jesse Gilbert and Dick Sutherland were present, Commissioner Mann W. Clark being in Indian Territory.

George Starrett succeeds Patrolman James Brennan, who resigned to work for the Illinois Central. Starrett is running a saw mill near Ogden Landing in Ballard county.

James Williams succeeds Fireman Len Cochran who died of appendicitis. Williams is well known generally in Paducah and is popular.

The board ordered Chief of Police James Collins to swear out warrants against all persons guilty of leaving vehicles of any kind with no horse attached on the streets or in alleys. At noon hour wagons are driven to livery stables, the horses unhitched and the wagons left standing in the street. It is a nuisance long complained of, and there being a law against it, the board ordered the law rigidly enforced.

Police powers were taken from E. E. Holt, night watchman at the Illinois Central freight depot. He shot Fred Collins, a plasterer, several weeks ago, thinking Collins was going to assault him with a club.

Police powers were conferred on Jap Toner, humane officer.

Junction of The Talk Line; Growth of The Telephone

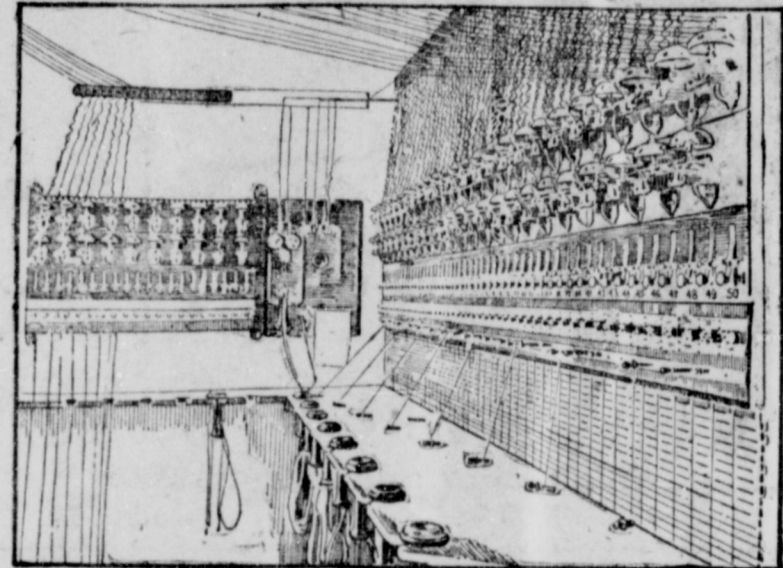

History of Development, Extension of Systems and Modern Apparatus Which Makes World Smaller and Facilitates Business and Social Life.

HOW THEY ARE OPERATED.

Boston, July 9.—Next to the anniversary of Alexander Graham Bell's invention of the telephone instrument, no industrial birthday is more interesting—and none, perhaps, is more important—than are the birthdays of the first telephone line and the first switchboard, which were it not allied with the inventive genius that devised the means of joining into one any two of the myriads of copper threads by which our voices are carried far and near.

First Connection.
The earliest attempt at inter-connection on the general plan of the exchange as we understand it today was made in Boston in May, 1877. There was then operating in this city a company which provided electrical burglar alarm service. It had a central station where the alarm signals were located, connected by wires with the premises of its various subscribers, who were chiefly bankers and merchants. Arrangements were made for the use of these lines and the central station as an experimental telephone exchange. Telephones were attached to five of the circuits—three in banks, one in the office of a firm of bankers, and one in the office of the manufacturer of the instruments—and repeatedly the wires were so connected in the alarm company's headquarters that conversations were carried on between the several subscribers.

The crude apparatus used for making these connections could hardly be called a switchboard, though it served, in its small way, the same purposes as does the large modern exchange. But it contained the germ of a great idea. It started experimentation as the result of which there was put into operation the following January a real tele-crude device which, through evolution, has become the huge, intricate, highly perfected switchboard of today.

Next to the telephone itself the switchboard is the most marvelous and most necessary feature of the communicating system. The work of the line builders has been the most spectacular, no doubt; but it would, after all, have counted for but little phone central office. Down in Bridgeport, Conn., there was a private telegraph system, private telegraphy being a sort of social fad at that time; and among the enthusiasts connected with it was Thomas B. Doolittle, already the inventor of many ingenious devices, and soon to be the producer of many more. Mr. Doolittle attached the telephone instrument to his society telegraph wires, modified the switchboard through which the lines had been connected, so that it could be manipulated by an operator, and attached signal bells to all the circuits as a means of calling the operator's attention. There were 20 subscribers served by this pioneer switchboard.

In the same month that Mr. Doolittle put his switchboard into operation, the first fully equipped commercial telephone exchange ever established for public or general service was opened in New Haven, Conn. It was a success from the start, and no sooner was the success of the New Haven undertaking apparent than other cities began installing central offices. The possibilities that given the telephone increased its popularity enormously. In spite of the doubts and hesitations nearly everyone showed in the early days, June 30, 1877, there were 230 telephones in regular use—230 telephones in the whole world 30 years ago today, where now there are upwards of 7,000,000. Within a month after the number had more than trebled; within two months it had been multiplied by six; and by the spring of 1889, there were in operation some 61,000 transmitting and receiving telephones. Meantime the central offices had multiplied wonderfully, and by March, 1884, there were in the United States only nine cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants and only one of more than 15,000 without a telephone exchange.

Switchboards.
The early switchboards were curious contraptions besides the modern type of apparatus. They took several forms before the "multiple board" was worked out. At first they had signal bells of different tones, one at the end of each subscriber's circuit, the distinctive tone indicating which line was "ringing up." Then numbered drops were adopted, each line having a metallic shutter in the front of the board which, when the subscriber turned the generator crank at the side of his telephone instrument, fell so as to display the number of his line. And finally came the "common battery" switchboard now in use in all large cities and being adapted to smaller exchanges, in which the operator's signal is given by a tiny incandescent electric lamp. The one place in the telephone system where a bell never rings is now the central office.

Some of the early switchboards were big frames set along the side of the operating room, the connections being made by boys who ran from one point to another as the calls came in. Others were like elongated tables, the switch-sockets being set into the flat top and the cords for connecting them being suspended from the ceiling. Apparatus of this sort was clumsy and slow to operate, besides being limited in the number of lines it could provide for. It was abandoned in the United States a quarter of a century ago, but it is a curious commentary on the lack of progressiveness in some directions of our trans-Atlantic cousins that it is still in use in some of the government operated exchanges of Europe.

In the last few years there have been devised "automatic" telephone systems in which the subscriber does the work of making connections between his lines and the lines of other subscribers. Instead of that work being done by an operator in the central office.

Value of Apparatus.
The census report says: "The total value of telephonic apparatus manufactured, as reported in the census of 1903, had a value of $15,863,698, as compared with $10,512,412 for the census of 1900. These figures do not reveal all the facts, for during the period covered no greater activity was shown in any department of electrical application than in telephony."

"The value returned for the 4,283 central switchboards was $5,154,447, to which should be added the 3,917 private exchange boards of a value of $564,795, making a total of $5,719,242. To this should be added a large proportion of the value of $2,071,895 reported for telephonic parts and supplies. The subscriber's apparatus used in connection with these exchange boards and smaller equipments was reported as having a value of $8,003,735, of which $6,483,418 was represented by complete sets of transmitters and receivers." And this is just the apparatus and equipment for central offices and subscribers' stations, taking no account of the expenditures upon the outside lines, overhead, underground, and submarine.

JUDGE CROSS' OPPORTUNITY.

In releasing two youths, guilty of a bizarre sort of robbery, on their recognizance to remain under surveillance of the court until they have justified their promises of reformation to the court's satisfaction, Police Judge D. A. Cross, has, perhaps, saved two boys from lives of crime, and society from the future depredations of two grown criminals. Unquestionably, the lesson of their arrest will have made lasting impressions on the boys, and the vigilance of their natural guardians will be redoubled. Had they gone to the reform (?) school, their criminal careers would have been marked out for them. Well informed people shudder every time a bad boy is sent to one of those finishing schools of crime.

We have ever been of the opinion that the police magistrate, or some other magistrate whose official duties bring him into daily contact with the sociological problems of the underworld, should preside over the juvenile court, instead of the county judge, whose duties, looking after the county's business affairs, keep him occupied with things rather than men.

We are glad to see Judge Cross taking the humanitarian view of the situation, and inaugurating the probation system of correcting adolescent criminal tendencies, but we greatly fear he has assumed a burden, that may cause him to regret the responsibility later, and incline him to return to the harsh method of exacting "an eye for an eye," and a "tooth for a tooth." In order that he may give the probation system a practical test, we suggest that somebody, the humane officer for instance, be appointed probation officer, to look after these boys and their guardians. It will cost little. If it should cost thousands and save one embryo criminal, who might otherwise have developed into a murderer or a robber, Paducah would be the gainer. But it will not cost enough to be missed, and we are positive that the system, instituted on a small scale will eventually prove so meritorious that it will be extended, so as to comprehend the surveillance of children, not as yet brought before the court for actual criminal practices.

It is wicked, cruel and unjust to punish boys, who go wrong because of physical defects, or improper home training and influence, when their physical defects might be corrected, and their natural guardians compelled to do their duty by the youths. It will avail us nothing to punish people for wrong doing, when they may return at the expiration of their period of punishment, instructed in crime, and hearts filled with hate against their own kind, who spurn them as branded criminals, to prey on society again. It is cheaper and better to take them in hand and correct them while young, if we look only to the material, selfish side of the question.

On the other hand, these boys have a right to demand an even chance in the world. Under adverse conditions they don't have that chance. Judge Cross has made his duties and obligations and work an hundred fold more difficult and complex by his experiment, but having taken the step he must not turn back; and, who knows, there may be more substantial rewards for the man whose labors make the Paducah city court an institution of justice to the unfortunate, instead of a mill to stamp the world's cruel judgments on its victims.

"Mr. Watterson wants to get back to the constitution, and so does Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, but it is pretty safe to infer that it will be by different routes," says the Kentucky State Journal.

What of that? It's the same constitution, isn't it?

There is another one of those Haris trials on in this state.

Louisville was the hottest place in the country Sunday, according to government observations. And every attempt to relieve the situation was forestalled by the police.

We trust Vice President Fairbanks' rescue of a young woman from death by drowning will not come in for as much adverse criticism as his efforts to save some friends from choking to death.

EUGENE SCHMITZ, CONVICT.

From leader of a theater orchestra to the mayoralty chair, from the mayoralty chair to a prison cell, and all this in the space of three years, is rapid transition for Eugene Schmitz; and the shifting sands of time have brought to the phenomenal city of the Golden Gate strange experiences, in the rise of the politico-labor movement, the earthquake and the arrest and conviction of her mayor on the charge of extortion.

Mayor Schmitz was elected as protest to the usurpation of municipal authority by selfish influences, but he was not elected by the better element of union labor, which is identical with the better element of the business and professional world. He represented the spirit of the mob; his instincts were predatory, and his administration supplanted the greed of gainful enterprises, with the greed of the extortioner; the mal-administration of the political tool with the depredations of the common thief.

Yet, Mayor Schmitz may have been a good musician. Left in the realm for which he was fitted, and which is as honorable as any calling on earth, he might have remained, to all intents, an honest man. He is not a monster. He is just human, and he fell victim to a very human temptation to steal according to his lights and gifts. Had his acquisitive training and his observation been otherwise, he might have stolen in a more conventional and approved fashion, and even now been enjoying the fruits of his assiduity and the esteem of his fellowmen.

Let us not judge Eugene Schmitz, convict, too harshly for his mistakes. His experience may but warn other thieves to be more careful.

Before the Indiana newspapers make too much capital out of the incident of the vice president rescuing a young woman, who had gone beyond her depth in a Yellowstone park lake, let us remember how tall he is.

In the first place: Hasn't our fleet a right in the Pacific waters? In the second place: Is not our most exposed side to the Pacific, where our island possessions lie? In the third place: Isn't it good politics and good policy for the administration to do what the people, who elected it, wish to do, especially when that wish is backed by sound reason? In the last place: Isn't it about six months since we have had a rousing war scare in this country? P. S.—The stationing of the fleet in the Pacific waters, with its attendant comment on the imminence of hostility, will have a good effect in increasing the numerical strength of the conservative press, both in America and Japan. No, there will be now war—not yet.

STICKS TO POST;
PREVENTS WRECKEngineer Swanson's Nerve and Luck Save Passengers.

Engine Wheel Cast Tire Going at Full Speed and Split Switch in Safety.

PASSENGERS ARE THANKFUL

Sticking to his post, knowing that every second might mean certain death, Engineer Carl Swanson stopped passenger train, No. 103, running south from Louisville on the Illinois Central, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning at Bratchet, a station 125 miles north of Paducah, preventing what would doubtless have been the most serious passenger wreck in years. Flying at the rate of 60 miles an hour, his engine cast off a tire, and splitting a switch, took to a sliding. Swanson with rare presence of mind worked his throttle shut, applied air and sand and waited for either the crash or a grinding stop of the wheels.

The train, which was pulled by engine, No. 2,003, was in charge of Engineer Carl Swanson, Fireman H. E. Dyres, Conductor Kenney and Flagman J. D. Elmore. The train stopped at Horse Branch, and had gotten fully under way again when Bratchet station was approached. No stop is made here, and Swanson was working his engine to her capacity to make up lost time. Suddenly there was a ringing sound, and a sudden swerve and bump of the big engine. Knowing too well what had happened, Swanson jammed his throttle shut, applied air and sand and waited.

Suddenly with a violent swerving motion that nearly threw Swanson and his fireman from the cab, the big engine took the siding. Swanson realized that the switch had been split by the cast off tire. The air took hold and soon the speed slackened, and by the time the entire train had cleared the main line and was on the siding, she came to a stop.

The tire on the right rear driver had been cast off. Nine times out of ten such an accident would have meant the engine being ditched, the rolling stock reduced to kindling wood, and passengers' lives snuffed out.

When passengers, rudely awakened from their slumbers, alighted from the train to investigate, Engineer Swanson was the center of attraction, and the hand shaking lasted for many minutes.

Freight engine, No. 237, was dispatched from Horse Branch and pulled the train to Paducah. The passenger engine was left on the siding, and the train pulled into Paducah two hours and a half late.

Mr. Otis Garber, day foreman of the Illinois Central round house, is in Louisville on business and his position is being filled by Gang Foreman James Hofflich. Mr. A. F. Schafer is acting for Mr. Hofflich.

Fireman Pete Gibson, who was shot July Fourth, is improving at the Illinois Central hospital.

George W. Cook, 23 years old, a flagman on the Tennessee division of the Illinois Central, residing at Fulton, struck his right foot against a tie near Fulton and will be disabled for several days.

Dr. N. W. Hilton, of the Illinois Central hospital corps, who was operated on for appendicitis, is able to sit up in bed.

ST. LOUIS BANKERS ARE INDICTED FOR FRAUD

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—Seven indictments have been returned by the federal grand jury against Edward G. Lewis, president of the People's United States bank, charging fraud. The indictments were returned Saturday, but the fact was not made public until today.

In one indictment Lewis and Francis V. Putnam, cashier of the bank, are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the bank's stockholders. Another indictment is against Lewis, Frank J. Cabot and Wm. M. Miller, charging conspiracy to defraud the government on postage rates on the mailing of the publication issued by Lewis. The other indictments stand against Lewis alone, charging him with a scheme to defraud through the People's United States bank. All the defendants gave bond today.

TEXANS SLAY FOUR ANIMALS IN A "SOCIETY BULLFIGHT"

El Paso, Tex., July 9.—The El Paso Elks, who leave on Wednesday for the annual reunion at Philadelphia last night gave a "society bullfight" to their friends. Four bulls were killed and the Americans displayed much skill in handling the danderlides, swords, and capes.

W. M. McCoy, a 250 pounder, acted as matador. This is said to be the first time an American amateur ever attempted the feat.

Hundreds saw the fight, which was held under electric light in the Mexican ring across the river. The bull fighters will be in Chicago on Friday morning.

Government Stops Gambling.

Washington, July 9.—By the revocation of the passenger certificate of the steamboat City of Traverse the government today dealt a heavy blow to the alleged gambling syndicate of the city of Chicago. The City of Travers leaves Chicago each day and anchors in Lake Michigan near the lines of intersection of the states of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan and it is said conducts there gambling operations.

Not Committing Himself.

"Do you find my daughter's voice improving, Mr. Seuler?" asked Mrs. Upmore.

"Improving?" said the professor of vocal training. "Why, may dear madam, it's—er—not the same voice at all."

More than 33,000,000 pounds of macaroni were produced in Lyon, France, in 1900.

Resignation is nothing but sense enough to realize that there is no use in growling about a loss.

Auto Dash to South Pole.

London, July 9.—To continue the exploratory work of the discovery expedition in the antarctic the party organized by Lieut. Shackleton leaves England in July and will make its headquarters on King Edward VII. land, a virgin field for exploration. Capt. Scott and his men having obtained but a glimpse of it. The exploring party of twelve men will be divided into groups of three each, one being composed of the "strongest" physically, who will attempt to reach the south pole. A high power automobile is being taken to haul the sledges laden with supplies over the ice. Manchurian ponies will be used when motor becomes impracticable. The expedition will occupy two years.

The Value of Good Health.

There is nothing so priceless as good health. What does it profit a man to achieve all sorts of success if he has not the health to enjoy it?

Good health is easy to have and keep. Ill health is due merely to a violation of nature's laws. Probably few of us deliberately violate the laws of health,—don't know that we have until we are suffering the penalty, and then we seek relief and lose patience if we are not quickly restored. Once you violate nature's laws and are deeply affected, the road to good health is a long and tedious one, with many bypaths leading off.

Osteopathy, however, is the guiding star to good health,—nature's most rational cure. Without the use of sickening, sometimes poisonous, medicines, by scientific manipulation, with resource to proper diet, exercise and fresh air it is the same, quick return to good health.

I am having great success in curing the ailments local to Paducah, and number among my patients people in Paducah you know well, to whom I should be pleased to refer you anytime for evidence of what osteopathy has done for them, or should be pleased to have you call at my office, 516 Broadway, upstairs, anytime for consultation. Dr. G. B. Froage, phone 1409.

GIRL HE WOODED 85 YEARS AGO

John Brunden Leaves To Meet Sweetheart of Youth.

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—A romance which began 85 years ago soon will lead two sweethearts to the altar. John B. Brunden, who admits 101 years, has left his home in Tate Springs, Tenn., for London, where he will meet his bride to be, Miss Rose McGuire, who has just turned her century mark. Together they will journey back to the little town in Tennessee, where they will be married before an assemblage of 135 "boys and girls", the youngest of whom is 90 years old.

In 1822 Brunden and Miss McGuire, who lived on adjoining farms in Tennessee, became sweethearts. They were parted when the girl's parents decided to abandon their new home in America and return to the one they left in England.

In those days mails were uncertain and irregular, and after a few letters which were exchanged between the boy and girl, they lost track of each other.

Brunden went to California long before the gold rush in '49. He thrived, and spent a fortune hunting for Miss McGuire. Until recently his search was fruitless.

Finally he learned her address in England and found that she had never married. Letters were exchanged and he learned that Miss McGuire still loved him, though almost a century had elapsed since they parted. Then Brunden bought the two old Tennessee farms and made them into one, erecting a fine house for the coming of his bride back to the scenes of their wooing.

NO DREADNAUGHTS IN NAVY.

Proposed Yankee Warships of Exclusive Class and Excell British.

Washington, D. C. July 9.—"There is no such thing as an 'American Dreadnought' nor is any projected," said a naval officer today. He was referring to the two great 20,000 ton battleships, contracts for which have just been provisionally awarded, and which were mentioned in the congressional debates and newspapers as of the Dreadnought class.

"The new ships should be called the Delaware class, as the first vessel of the kind usually fixes the name of the class."

"The 12 inch guns of the British vessels are carried in two turrets on the central lines from bow to stern and in two 'waist' or side turrets. Guns of the Delaware type are placed in four turrets in line with the keel."

"The advantage of the latter arrangement is the ability to bring every one of the guns of the primary batteries of the ship to bear upon an opponent on either side, while 25 per cent of the British fire would be masked under like circumstances."

"There are also numerous changes in the interior arrangements, and, on the whole, save from the fact that the tonnage of the two classes are alike and turbine machinery is to be used for the propeller's power, the American Delaware does not resemble the Dreadnought."

NUTTY ABOUT INVENTION OF HIS SUBMARINE BOAT.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 9.—An effort on the part of a young man of powerful physique to interview President Roosevelt at 4 o'clock this morning was frustrated by the secret service guard maintaining night and day watch at Sagamore Hill. The caller, whose name has been withheld, but who is a member of a well known and respectable New Jersey family, had evidently lost his mental equilibrium through enthusiasm regarding the merits of a submarine boat, he claims to have perfected, and which he thought President Roosevelt ought to know about, without the slightest delay, in view of the proposed plan to send the battleship fleet to the Pacific.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

New Outbreak of Wine Growers Not at All Unlikely.

Paris, July 9.—Dispatches from the south of France today report that the situation there is again growing serious. The dissatisfaction with the new wine fraud law and the supplementary measure now under consideration by parliament, together with the arrest of thirty persons suspected of complicity in the burning of the prefecture at Narbonne have angered the people. The mayors and other municipal officers are holding meetings and have decided to again resign their offices unless the arrested persons are released, the troops with drawn and the wine fraud bill modified.

Accused Pastor Quits Post.
Altoona, Pa., July 9.—Exposure of alleged improprieties has made vacant the pulpit of the Second United Brethren church here.

Dr. William N. Deller, who was the pastor until Friday, wrote his resignation and left the city.
Last Thursday night the preacher and Miss Margaret Bulliford were ordered out of the Hotel Hagey at Martinsburg, Pa.

The young woman in the case attended the Sunday school services this afternoon. The trustees requested her to leave, which she did without protest.

HAMMOCKS 90c to $4.25 at NOAH'S ARK

In hammocks we have a line of which any dealer might be proud. Though our hammocks cost less than you are usually asked to pay, you will find no better qualities anywhere than at Noah's Ark.

For $3 we have a variety of handsome patterns and substantial weaves, full size—values which can not be equalled any place in the city for the money.

If you want a little better one, we have a beauty for $3.25. And for $4.25 we have a hammock which is the equal of any $8 hammock in Paducah. It's large and roomy, with a comfortable pillow. The fabric is heavy and closely woven and the colors are as near weather proof as it is possible to make them. Other good ones for 90c, $1.25, $2.25 and $2.50.

A hammock is now the most comfortable place about the house. By all means come to Noah's Ark before you buy, for if you don't we both lose money.

JAPAN READY

SAKAMOTO SAYS HE WOULD HAVE NO NAVAL BASE.

Conservative Press Says No Danger of Belligerent Act Without Fleet of 30 Vessels.

Tokio, July 9.—Hochi Shimbun has interviewed Admiral Sakamoto, who said: "Concerning the dispatching of sixteen warships to the Pacific, decided on by President Roosevelt, it is difficult to tell whether it is intended as a threat or as a provocation to fight. Should America be intimately disposed, Japan, if necessary, is ready." "The actual American naval strength in the Atlantic at present consists of thirty-six ships of more than 10,000 tons, of which 28 were built since 1900.

"Now America is going to dispatch sixteen or twenty out of those to the Pacific, showing that they are not wanting in that direction. But where will they rendezvous? They must seek points at no great distance from bases of operation in the Philippines. There is Cavite, where there are an arsenal and a great coal depot. Santiago has a good harbor, but no dock. In time of peace, Hong Kong is available for repairs, but in time of war a basis of operations would be sadly lacking within a proper distance.

"Should America use Luzon as a base of operations Japan could use Peadores. It is inadvisable for America to employ the ships about Hawaii. The distance from Yokohama is 3,600 miles. No existing warship has coaling capacity for that distance, consequently Japan can not do anything against Hawaii. Hence it is unnecessary for the United States to build works of defense there.

"Such being the actual state of affairs, should there unfortunately be war the absence of a decisive point of action would only result in an indecisive warfare. The American navy can be effective only near the Pacific coast, where there are arsenals and docks."

The Asahi today publishes an interview with an influential Japanese naval expert, who says:

"It would be improper to infer a demonstration in the transfer of the American fleet to the Pacific. This movement is a part of a prearranged plan and is a result of the constant growth of the American navy and the increasing importance of Pacific interests from the strategic point of view. No significance need be attached until at least thirty ships have been transferred to the Pacific."

The Asahi also published an editorial article setting forth the same views. It regrets the American fleet cannot visit Japan in order to enable Japan to reassess her sincerity and reciprocate the naval hospitality extended to the visiting Japanese warships at Jamestown.

The paper also urges the abrogation of article 2 of the existing commercial treaty in order to put an end to the anti-Japanese feeling at San Francisco.

The Asahi is an independent newspaper, representing all classes, and has the widest circulation in Japan. It is not considered, however, to carry great weight editorially.

Howard Gould Wins Point.
New York, July 9.—Mrs. Howard Gould failed in her efforts to get the supreme court today to allow her to bring the names of Howard Gould's women friends into her separation action. Through a curious error it was believed Justice McCall had decided against Gould, but this evening a careful examination of the decision showed this was not so. It is practically certain that Mrs. Gould will appeal.

Incendiaries Busy.

Columbia, S. C., July 9.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, wiped out the business portion of Holy Hill, Berkeley county, about 11 o'clock this morning, causing a loss of about $40,000; insurance about $15,000. Among the losers were the B. F. Ayers Hotel, telephone exchange, Bank of Holy Hill and the county dispensary.

Bloodhounds have been sent to the scene, with the hope of capturing the guilty party.

Road Committee at Work.

The road committee appointed by fiscal court to inspect county roads, went out this morning on the first trip. They will make three trips a week until the work is finished. Three dollars a day is allowed each member. The committee is composed of Magistrates Broadfoot, Rawlinson and Bleich.

Church a Respite from Jail.

Carmi, Ill., July 9.—Tiring of confinement in the city calaboose, Charles Carroll, a vagrant, today requested permission to go to church. The unique request was granted and the man worshiped at a Methodist church. After services he returned unattended to his cell.

"May we have the pleasure of your company this evening, Colonel?" she asked.

The Colonel drew himself up haughtily and replied, with every evidence of offended dignity: "Madam, I command a regiment."—Kansas City Independent.

Mrs. Upmore (making a call)—"Why, this is your latest photograph, isn't it? It's an excellent likeness of you, but is isn't so good of the baby. Wasn't he—"

Mrs. Highmus—"The idea! Did you think the little darling in my lap was baby? That's Fido!"—Chicago Tribune.

Carmi, Ill., July 9.—Tiring of confinement in the city calaboose, Charles Carroll, a vagrant, today requested permission to go to church. The unique request was granted and the man worshiped at a Methodist church. After services he returned unattended to his cell.

"May we have the pleasure of your company this evening, Colonel?" she asked.

The Colonel drew himself up haughtily and replied, with every evidence of offended dignity: "Madam, I command a regiment."—Kansas City Independent.

Platform of the Republican Party

The platform of the Republican party, adopted in convention at Louisville, is as follows:

We approve the policies and commend the ability, integrity and courage of President Roosevelt and his administration, and without expressing a preference for any candidate, favor the selection by the next national convention for president of one in full accord with those policies, and who will energetically carry them out in the interests of all the people.

Second—We demand that all elections shall be honestly conducted, and declare that the cause of good government and the future happiness and welfare of the people of Kentucky are inseparably bound up in the suppression of all abuses and crimes against an honest ballot, that have so unfortunately disgraced our state under Democratic rule, depriving the people of their rightful heritage—representative government.

The law for registration certificates, imposed on the state by the Democratic party for immoral purposes, whereby votes in Kentucky have become negotiable instruments, passing by delivery, ought to be repealed.

Third—The judiciary of the state in both the circuit and appellate courts, should be chosen on non-partisan grounds, and the continuance in office of faithful judicial public servants should be determined by no other qualifications than fitness.

Fourth—There should be complete publicity concerning the expenditure of money for political campaigns, and a law should be passed providing for an accounting by candidates and campaign managers of all sums of money collected for political purposes.

Fifth—We demand the redistricting of Kentucky in legislative, senatorial, congressional and judicial districts, which shall give equal representation and equal voting power to every citizen of every district, in conformity with the plain requirements of the constitution, and not as at present, in flagrant violation thereof.

Sixth—There should be prompt and efficient enforcement of the criminal laws of every kind, and at all times, but especially at this time do we call for the rigid enforcement of the law against those forms of crimes, which, under the recent administration of justice, in many communities, have gone practically unpunished. Election thieves, gamblers, pool room operators and others, to commit crimes in the interest of those controlling the local administration of some of our cities and counties, should be punished, and the juries should be so selected as to prevent the packing of juries for the purpose of securing verdicts in accordance with the wishes of those in whose hands the selection of the juries is placed, or under whose control and direction they are selected.

Seventh—We demand that the books, vouchers and accounts of all municipalities, all public officers and public institutions supported by the state, counties or cities, and of all corporations in which a city or state owns the majority interest, either directly or through subordinate corporations, trustees or commissioners, shall be open to inspection and investigation by any citizen, and shall be regularly audited and the results published by an independent accountant, who shall not be eligible to re-examine such books, vouchers or accounts twice in succession.

Eighth—We demand a reform in the management of our public elementary and penal institutions, to the end that they shall be operated by bipartisan boards, upon proper business principles, and their inmates treated humanely.

Ninth—We favor the enactment and enforcement of a uniform local option law, with the county as the governing unit.

Tenth—We demand that the public schools of the state shall be taken and kept entirely out of politics, and that the interests and welfare of the children shall have first consideration in all public school matters.

We call for better schools and school houses, for longer school terms in the country, and better pay for the teachers, and the elections for school trustees be had on different days from other elections.

Eleventh—We favor amendments to state laws permitting and encouraging joint nominations of the same candidate by the different parties.

Twelfth—We condemn the law, passed for immoral political purposes creating the racing commission in Kentucky, and demand its repeal.

Thirteenth—We condemn the enactment by the Democratic party of a large number of obnoxious tax laws and the creation of useless offices as the reward of partisan service, and we promise, if given power, to repeal all such laws and reduce the taxes to the lowest possible rate consistent with an efficient administration of the state government.

Conclusion.
For years past the legislation enacted by the Democratic party and dictated by certain of its leaders has not been for the benefit of the citizen, but for the officeholder. The chief aim of such legislation has been the continued holding of office and the creation of new offices to be traded in as rewards for party service.

The citizen is at last realizing, as never before, that the administration of public affairs is a business that comes close home to him; that such business must be honestly and efficiently conducted, and that his ballot should not be cast as a matter of sentiment, but for that candidate or party which shows the highest capacity for properly conducting the affairs of the state on strict business principles.

We ask the support of all patriotic citizens, regardless of their party affiliations, for the state ticket selected by this convention, and for the policies and principles above stated, believing that it will insure better days for Kentucky.

SAVES WOMAN FROM DROWNING IN YELLOWSTONE.

Vice President to Rescue Without Waiting for Assistance—Runs From Hotel to Lake.

Chicago, July 9.—A special to the Record-Herald, from Yellowstone National park, says:

"Vice President Fairbanks, yesterday risked his life to save Miss Lena Waters, a waitress at the Park Hotel. While sitting on the hotel veranda he heard screams from the lake. Seeing the young woman struggling in the water, Fairbanks ran towards the lake, throwing off his coat as he ran towards the shore.

When the vice president leaped into the water and made for the girl another man followed. The two dragged the unconscious girl to the shore after a hard struggle.

Fairbanks at once began to resuscitate and was successful.

Many persons, during the day congratulated the vice president on his courage. Later Fairbanks left for Seattle, where he will address the Young People's Society of the Christian Endeavor convention on July 12.

WOMAN MAULS A CAT IN THE STREET LETTER BOX.

New York, July 9.—A tall woman sauntered up to the big package mail box at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue and pushed something through the opening. It fell to the bottom, and the woman scurried away.

In a few minutes the cables on the corner began to hear loud wails from the box.

The cries finally became so loud that the cabbies called Policeman Hare.

One of the few things a policeman can't do is to open a mail box, so he telephoned to Station H, on Madison avenue, and told them a baby or something that could make equally as much noise had taken possession of the big box on his beat, and he couldn't make an arrest until some one opened it.

William L. Quinlan, a clerk, was sent with a key and opened the box. Out jumped a wild excited Maltese cat, which blinked and winked in the electric light, and then began rubbing against the policeman's leg.

MAYOR SCHMITZ GETS FIVE YEARS

Dramatic Scene When Prisoner is Sentenced

Seething Arraignment of San Francisco's Chief Executive By Judge Dunne.

RESENTS WORDS OF THE COURT

San Francisco, Cal., July 9.—The sentencing of Mayor Schmitz to five years in the San Quentin prison for extortion was one of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in a court. After some preliminaries the court called upon Schmitz to stand up. When the mayor arose his face was the color of ivory, his lips pressed tightly together, and he bent his eyes in a piercing glance on the judge, and never once during the dramatic moments that followed did he drop them, his shoulders were thrown well back and he held his head high. The judge asked the usual question if Schmitz had any cause to show why judgment should not be passed, and was answered by a motion for a new trial which was denied.

The court proceeded to pass sentence but before doing so delivered a seething arraignment of Schmitz. The judge said the verdict was a message to all people in San Francisco that the law and order are supreme, that no man, however exalted his station or how strong and powerful are the political, social or financial influences which surround him is above law. "Eugene Schmitz," said Judge Dunne, "you have heretofore occupied the highest office which the city of San Francisco can confer on one of its citizens. You were elevated to that position because of the confidence and trust reposed in you by the mass of the people.

"I am here," interrupted Schmitz, "to receive sentence at your hands, and not to be humiliated by a lecture which newspapers can repeat in print."

Beyond pausing Judge Dunne paid no attention to the interruption.

"You were elevated to that position, I say, because of the confidence and trust imposed in you."

Attorney Metson interposed:

"We are here to take sentence, not to be lectured. We—"

"Mr. Metson," said Dunne warmly, "if you interrupt these proceedings again I will send you to jail. You would be in a far better business if you were here begging for a day in court to answer the charge that you wilfully and improperly attempted to tamper with the jury in this case."

"I am ready," responded Metson, "to answer, now or any other time, any charge that may be lodged against me. I take exception to the remarks of the court addressed to the defendant and to the improper and uncalled for insinuation of the court against myself."

To this Dunne made no reply, but turning to Mayor Schmitz, resumed: "You were elected to the position because of the confidence and great trust reposed in you by a mass of the people. By your wilful criminal act, so a jury of your fellow citizens has declared, broken that confidence and betrayed that trust."

Schmitz again protested against the lecture but Dunne took no notice.

"Therefore," he continued, "it may be said the penalty which the law permits in this case is insufficient to meet the demands of justice. It may be suggested, however, that by your conviction you will lose the respect and esteem of all good citizens and men, that you will suffer the humiliation of knowing that your career of hypocrisy, duplicity and dishonesty to defend my rights," interposed Schmitz. "I am not asking any leniency at the hands of this court. I am prepared to receive the sentence. I ask that your honor do your duty and pronounce it immediately and that I be not subjected to the humiliation and the degrading remarks which the papers are copying and will print. I say if your honor has any self-respect you will proceed with the sentence."

"It is not usual," was Dunne's

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER

SLEEPLESSNESS.

Do you know what makes people lay awake and toss and roll about at night? Doctors tell you there are various causes, I tell you it's stomach trouble. I know it because I've seen thousands of cases and watched them. A stomach that is over-crowded with undigested food matter effects every organ of the human body. It causes nervousness, headaches, constipation, impure blood, poor circulation and dulls the mind. It makes one restless and uneasy. When your stomach is working right you feel right. You sleep well and you eat well.

People come to me day after day and tell me they can't rest after eating. They have a dull headache. At night they go to bed simply because they are exhausted. They catch a few cat naps and get up in the morning feeling as worn out as they did before. I have recommended Cooper's New Discovery, a regular diet, regular habits and invariably these same people come to me afterwards and tell me they feel much better because they eat well and sleep well. Herewith is a sample:

A letter I received from Mrs. Geo. Welsel, 1121 Providence Road, Scranton, Pa., says:

"I suffered for three years from stomach trouble, inactive liver and rheumatism. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I lay awake night after night. I had no pleasure in life and could scarcely do my work about the house. I heard from a neighbor of Cooper's New Discovery and I bought two bottles of it. It helped me right away. Now I have a good appetite and never suffer from indigestion. I sleep well and awake refreshed. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for what this medicine has done for me."

The Cooper medicines have a larger sale than any medicine on the market. Our customers speak highly of them. W. B. McPherson, Drugist.

stinging reply, "for courts to be brought into contact with such brazen acts of effrontery as yours in the present instance. It is the duty of the court in such cases to view the conduct of a convicted felon with patience and toleration, not to say pity. By your conviction you will lose the respect and esteem of all good citizens. You will suffer the humiliation of knowing, I say, that your career of hypocrisy, duplicity and dishonesty has been exposed, and that you stand before those who believed in and honored you, morally naked, shamed and disgraced."

"I deny that," cried Schmitz, "the people of San Francisco know I am now railroaded through."

Dunne resumed: "Morally naked, shamed and disgraced. It is in the knowledge of those things rather than in any mere term of imprisonment in the state penitentiary, that the full measure of your punishment is to be found."

"It is the judgment of this court that you be confined in the state prison at San Quentin for a term of five years."

Then as if in direct and contemptuous reply to the prisoner's denial of a moment before, the crowd turned loose its feelings in a cheer that rattled the windows and drowned the sharp rappings of the bailiff for order.

Immediately after passing the sentence Attorney Fairall asked that Schmitz be admitted to bail pending an appeal. This application will be heard tomorrow. Bills of exceptions were filed and Judge Dunne granted a certificate of probable cause, enabling Schmitz to carry to the district court of appeals his motion for a new trial.

"Now, sir," broke in the accuser. "I have lived in the borough for nearly twenty years, and if the chief constable doesn't know me yet, isn't that a character for you?"—Tit-Bits

The KING of DIAMONDS.

By Louis Tracy,

Author of "Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY EDWARD J. CLODE.

Once in Naples Philip saw a man stealthily following a woman down an unlighted alley. Without a moment's hesitation he went after the pair and was just in time to prevent the would be assassin from plunging an uplifted stiletto into the woman's back. The recollection of that little drama flashed into his mind now. There was a suggestion of the Neapolitan bravo's air in the manner in which these men stalked a girl who was quite unaware of their movements.

He asked himself why a cabman should refuse one fare and pick up another in the same spot. The affair was certainly odd. He would see further into it before he dismissed it from his thoughts. The distance to Maida Crescent was not great.

While thinking he was acting. He sprang into the nearest hansom.

"A brougham is following a hansom up Langham place," he said to the driver. "Keep behind them. If they separate, follow the brougham. When it stops, pull up at the best place to avoid notice."

The man nodded. Nothing surprises a London cabman. Soon the three vehicles were spinning along the Outer circle.

It was not a very dark night, the sky being cloudless and starlit. Away in front at a point where the two lines of lamps curved sharply to the right and vanished amid the trees a row of little red lights showed that the road was up.

The leading hansom drove steadily on. There was nothing remarkable in this. When the driver reached the obstruction, he would turn out of the park by the nearer gate; that was all.

But he did nothing of the kind. There was a sudden crash of wood, a woman's scream, and the horse was struggling wildly amid a pile of loose wooden blocks, while one wheel of the cab dropped heavily into a shallow trench.

Simultaneously the brougham pulled up, and its two occupants rushed to the scene of the accident.

Philip's driver of course obeyed instructions, but he shouted to his fare as he jumped into the road:

"That fellow's either drunk or 'e did it a-purpose."

"Philip was of the same opinion. He reached the overthrown barricade almost as soon as the two hurrying men in front, both of whom were in evening dress.

One of them held the horse's head and steadied him. The other was just in time to help the young lady to leave her dangerous conveyance.

"I hope you have received no injury, madam," he said politely.

"Oh, not at all. I was frightened for an instant. How could it have happened? I saw the lamps quite plainly. The man seemed to pull his horse deliberately into the barrier."

The voice was singularly sweet and well modulated. A neighboring are lamp illuminated the girl's face, with its white, unspitting radiance. It revealed features beautifully modeled and large, startled eyes that looked wonderingly from the man who came so promptly to her rescue to the driver who had caused the mishap. Philip, behind the hansom, was unseen. He remained a critical observer.

"I fear he is intoxicated," was the reply. "Here, you! How came you to make such a blunder?"

"Blind as an owl," came the gurgling answer. "I saw some red spots dancin' about, but I thort it must be that last gill o' beer."

Nevertheless the cabman extricated his horse and vehicle from their predicament with singular ease for a half drunken man.

"Goin' on, miss?" he grinned. "There's nothin' extry for the steeplechase."

"No, no," cried the lady. "I will walk. I will pay you now."

"Take my advice and pay him not a cent," protested the man by her side. "Leave him to me. My friend here will take his number. If you will accept a seat in my brougham!"

The cabman began to swear and threaten them all with personal violence. The lady, clearly unwilling to avail herself of the accommodating offer made to her, tried to edge away. The driver of the hansom whipped his horse on to the pavement. By this time he had turned his back to the roadmen's barrier.

The girl, angered and alarmed, shrank toward the gentleman, who seemed to give her some measure of protection from the infuriated cause of all the trouble.

"Do step into my brougham," he said civilly. "Victor, just grab the gee-gee's head again, and keep that idiot quiet until we get away. Now, madam, take my advice. You will be quite safe instantly."

Even yet she hesitated. There was perchance a tincture in the quiet, cultured tone of the speaker that did not ring truly. The note of a bell cannot be perfect if there is a flaw in the metal, and the human voice often betrays a warped nature when to all outward seeming there is a fair exterior.

The man who addressed her was youthful, not much older than herself. He was evidently a gentleman, with the polish and easy repose of society. His words, his attitude, were in the best of taste. Yet—

A loud altercation broke out between the cabman and "Victor." The latter did not appear to be so ready to lay hands on the reins again, and the whip fell viciously on the horse's flank, causing him to plunge forward in dangerous proximity to the couple on the sidewalk. He came close, but not too close. Philip was now quite certain that he was witnessing the dexterous display of a skilled driver.

"Really, I am at a loss for words to persuade you that your only course is to use my carriage; otherwise there will be a confounded row."

The stranger's voice was a trifle petulant; she was such an unreasonable young lady. She turned to him in a resolute way to find Philip at her side, thrusting himself in front of her would be rescuer.

"You have been the victim of a plot, madam," he said. "Your driver is not drunk. He caused the accident purposely. These two scoundrels are in league with him. I!"

"What the devil!" cried the other fiercely, but Philip swung him bodily against the iron railings.

"If you care to take my cab alone it is at your service. I will look after these ends."

His quick eyes caught a signal from Victor to the cabman. He was sorry for the horse, but this comedy must be stopped. He instantly caught the bride and backed the cab violently toward the excavation. The cabman lashed at him in vain and swore, too, with remarkable fluency for one so drunk. Both wheels crunched on top of the stout barrier and became locked there.

Then Anson ran back toward the girl, whose arm was held by the owner of the brougham.

"Take your hands off that lady or I will hurt you," said Philip. And there was that in his emphatic order which brooked no delay.

The stranger dropped his restraining hand, but shouted furiously:

"By what right do you interfere? I am only offering the lady some assistance."

Philip ignored him.

"What do you say, madam?" he inquired, somewhat sternly, for she seemed loath to trust any of them.

"Will you occupy my cab? It is there. Rest assured that neither of these men shall follow you."

She stood her ground, came nearer to him.

"I believe you," she murmured. "I thank you from my heart. It is inexplicable that such wretches can exist as these two seeming gentlemen, who stooped to such artifice against a helpless woman."

"Most fortunately I saw you leaving the Regent's hall," he replied. "This cab was waiting for you and you only. The man refused at least one fare in my presence. The others followed in a brougham. Do you know them?"

"No, I have never, to my knowledge, seen either of them before in my life. How came you?"

"I happened to hear your address. I will write to you and explain. Go now," he quickly interrupted, for Victor and his friend were approaching them after a hasty conference.

"Leave you to deal with these assassins alone! Not I! I can defend myself. I can help you. I will scream for assistance. There are too many of them for you to resist them single-handed."

Philip vowed afterward that fire flashed in her eyes. There was a splendid passion in the gesture with which she pointed to the enraged hansom driver, who had climbed from his perch and was running to join his employers.

This was a new experience for Philip.

"By what right do you interfere?"

Philip and the blood leaped in his veins at the girl's courageous words, but he laughed in his pleasant, musical way.

"Men who would attack a defenseless woman," he said, "are poor creatures where a man's heart is needed. Now, just watch me and don't be alarmed."

He strode to meet the advancing trio. They halted.

"I give you a last warning," he cried. "Drive off in your carriage. And you!"

"To the cabman—" go back and help your horse. You must go now, this instant, or take the consequences."

There was the silence of indecision. This strong faced man with the figure of an athlete meant what he said.

Victor caught his friend's arm.

"Come away," he whispered. "She does not know you. You have failed this time."

Without another word the pair crossed the road to their waiting brougham. The cabman, who became remarkably sober, began to whine:

"It's only a lark, gov'nor. The lady would ha' took no 'arm. I didn't mean—"

Philip was strongly tempted to kick him, but refrained. He grasped the man's shoulder and lifted his badge to the light.

"I will spare you for the lady's sake," he said grimly, "but I want your number, in case you try any more such tricks."

"My Gawd, it's Mr. Anson!"

For the first time the driver saw Philip's face clearly.

"Ah, you know me, then? Who were those blackguards who employed you?"

"Selp me, sir, I only know one of 'em. 'E's a Mr. Victor Grenier. I often pick 'im up at the Gardenia."

"E said 'is pal was sweet on the young lady an' wanted a put up job for 'elp 'er. That's all, gov'nor, on me life."

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," was Philip's only comment.

He rejoined the girl, who was watching the retreating brougham.

"Now," he cried pleasantly, "you can go home."

"Please drive me there. I will not deprive you of your cab."

So they drove away together, and the driver of the hansom, striving to free his vehicle from the broken treads, paused to scratch his head.

"E fairly bested the crowd," he growled, "an' got the girl as well. My eye, but she's a beauty!"

Bargains in Egyptian Mummies.

Along the bank of the Luxor side of the river, in the shop of Ahmed Abd-el-Rahin, there is an astounding bargain in mummified babies, and one in particular, which he claims is 3,000 years old, is offered for the trifling sum of $12.

The circumstances are not without its pathetic side; nevertheless, the first impulse of the average human is to laugh when the honorable Ahmed comes forth with the gay little case covered with hieroglyphics and tells you that it is a baby and argues that it be taken to America.

The curious part of it is that many tourists do buy these mummies, which to all appearances are genuine as to age; and it is another curious fact that tourists buy the mummy cloths, tattered and torn and stained, although wonderful in color and design, that have been wrapped around the dead bodies of the ancient Egyptians. Also the vendors of separate hands and feet seem to enjoy a good income during the season.—Leslie's Weekly.

OLD CRIME

GETS YOUNG MAN IN JAIL AND POLICEMEN BIG REWARD.

Alleged Deserter From Navy and Fugitive From Mississippi Under Arrest.

Charles Phillips, known as Charles Grady, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Cross and Johnson for the alleged malicious shooting of a man in Batesville, Miss., over a year ago. He is being held pending the arrival of Mississippi officers.

Grady, or Phillips, is 23 years of age, and was the adopted son of Frank Grady, formerly turnkey at the county jail, now dead. He enlisted in the U. S. navy and deserted. Ten months for desertion were given him and he spent them in the guard house. On being released he came to Paducah, arriving two weeks ago. He had been residing in Tyler. Grady offered no resistance and took his arrest calmly, saying that he guessed he would get no more than 10 years at Batesville. A reward of $100 is offered for him, which will go to the Paducah policemen.

Petty Criticism.

Cyrus Small's time was largely spent in discovering the faults and shortcomings of things animate and inanimate, while Mrs. Small, as it seemed, was equally vigilant in attempting to bring forward something of which she could say, "There, you can't pick any flaws in that!"

Once she thought this happiness would be hers. A certain man in the town inherited large wealth under peculiar circumstances. It was his under the law, but when the court awarded it to him he stood up and said that, in view of all the facts in the case, he believed that the property belonged of right to another heir. His action was generally looked upon as a noble one.

Mrs. Small was loud in her expressions of praise.

"Yes, I know," said her husband, "twas a fine thing. Few men would have done it, and that's why he felt so awkward to stand up there and say what he did. He showed that he felt embarrassed by the way he stood."

"Cyrus Small, I should hope you would not find fault with his attitude when he was doing such a grand thing!"

"Oh, no; I have no wish to criticize," said Cyrus, "but if I had been on the platform, facing all those people, I should have tried to toe out a little more."

The Wrong Way.

The late John C. Paige had at one time as a protégé the son of a very particular friend, a pleasant, gentlemanly young fellow, but always ready to make a bet or to take a hand in a quiet game, and on this account it was thought best by his parents to send him to Boston on a limited income with the hope of breaking away from old associates and of getting some business energy into him.

Mr. Paige gave him some good, wholesome advice and started him along in business, particularly instructing him to "get his name before the public to let the people know he was living," etc.

Not very long after this Boston debut Mr. Paige very late one evening was requested to call at a nearby police station. The young man, it appeared, had got into a very noisy game and was arrested, but not before he had been cleaned out of everything he possessed.

"Well, young man," said Mr. Paige, "this is nice, isn't it?"

"Well, sir, you told me to get my name before the public."

"Oh, yes," Mr. Paige replied, "but I didn't tell you to have a judge and jury go with it to fix the advertising rates."—Boston Herald.

Colorado's Wild Tobacco.

Prof. Fritz Knorr, of the Colorado Agricultural college has found tobacco growing wild in great profusion in the Montezuma valley of Colorado. Prof. Knorr is a native of Kentucky and knows tobacco culture all the way from planting the seed to breaking the necks of the big green worms. While attending the farmers' institute at Cortez, in the Montezuma valley, Prof. Knorr was asked to suggest a method of eradicating a troublesome weed. He took a sample of the weed to examine it, and was amazed to see in it a fine specimen of wild tobacco. It seems that none of the farmers there were familiar with the tobacco plant and did not recognize the obnoxious weed as the ancestor of the cigars they were smoking. It is believed that tobacco was raised extensively in the Montezuma valley ages ago by the dwellers.—Now York Tribune.

Robin Remembers Man Who Set Its Broken Leg.

Lock Haven, Pa., July 9.—About six weeks ago, Hugh McGill, who resides in the eastern part of the city, noticed an old robin fluttering in the grass in front of his home. After some effort he caught it with his hands and discovered that one of the robin's legs was broken.

Taking redbreast into the house, he washed the bones, applied splints and carefully bandaged the leg. To his surprise the bones knitted, and soon the leg was found to be as good as ever.

The robin was given its freedom, but in appreciation of the kind act it comes about the house many times.

AFTER ESTATE

RELATIVES OF MRS. EDDY WANT

A Court To Hold It In Trust Until Their Rights May Be Established.

Concord, N. H., July 9.—A bill in equity, seeking to place under the jurisdiction of the court the trust fund of $125,000, created by Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science faith last February, subsequent to which time the suit for the accounting of her property was brought by certain next friends of Mrs. Eddy, was filed today.

George W. Glover, of Lead, S. D., a son of Mrs. Eddy, and his wife and four children are the plaintiffs, and the bill is one of many that has been entered in connection with the already complicated litigation, involving the property of Mrs. Eddy.

Pending the legal proceedings, it is alleged, have prevented the Glovers from enjoying the trust fund, and they, as plaintiffs, ask the court to order that the money and securities mentioned in the trust deed shall, during the pending of the suit to determine Mrs. Eddy's competency, be held in trust as property under the guardianship of the court, and that in due time the court shall advise the plaintiffs concerning their rights and duties in connection with the property covered by the trust deed.

CREOSOTE BURNS

FOUR TRACKMEN

Carrying Bridge Timber Near Krebs Station

Received at Illinois Central Hospital
With Their Faces, Arms and Chests Blistered.

IS USED TO PRESERVE TIMBERS

Four men were horribly burned about the chest and arms, one in the face, at Krebs Station several miles south of Paducah on the Illinois Central, in handling bridge timbers which had undergone a creosote treatment. The over treatment of the timbers caused the burns, which are even more painful than burns from flames or carbolic acid. They were treated at the Illinois Central hospital, and it will be weeks before they will be able to resume work. The accident is one of the few of its kind on record.

Jesse Stokes, 38; Ernest Butcher, 28; Calvin Hart, 22, and James Blanks, 24, all section laborers of Krebs, were set to work loading timbers at Krebs. All day in the broiling sun they worked, handling the heavy timbers, which were soaked with the chemical. They were unconscious of the fact that too much creosote had been used, and when night came their flesh itched and the itch fast developed into a burning sensation until blisters appeared. Alarmed at their condition they consulted a physician and were brought to Paducah at once.

Stokes had his face badly burned, his cheeks resting against the timbers as he handled them. His arms and chest were exposed, were also burned. The others received burns on the fore arms, chest and neck.

Creosote is used to preserve timber, making its life much longer. Bridge timbers and ties are treated with it principally.

CUPID MAKES TEACHER FAMINE

Kansas Short 1,000 Because So Many Have Lately Married.

Topeka, July 9.—The sly wiles of Cupid threaten to disrupt the public schools of Kansas, according to State Superintendent Fairchild, who says Kansas is threatened with a shortage of school teachers which will be as disastrous as the shortage of men to save the wheat crop. He has heard from 38 of the 105 counties and, basing future returns on these, there will be a shortage of more than a thousand teachers. Mr. Fairchild says more women teachers have married this year than ever before. Twelve thousand teachers are required to conduct the Kansas schools.

Long Distance Balloon Record.

Toledo, O., July 9.—The longest long-distance airship flight ever attempted by an aeronaut in a dirigible balloon will be undertaken some time this week by Roy Knabenshue, the Toledo aeronaut. Knabenshue will undertake to sail his new passenger ship from Toledo to Cleveland, a distance of 123 miles, on an average speed of 20 miles an hour. He figures that he can make the journey and land in the Forest City inside of seven hours.

FRIENDLY TONE

ASSUMED BY FRENCH OFFICIAL IN COMMUNICATION.

German Comment Is Appreciative of Spirit and Expressed in Reciprocal Terms.

Berlin, June 9.—That the German press is in general in favor of a growing sentiment for improvement in the relations between France and Germany is evidenced in the recent speech by French Foreign Minister Pinchon and Dutch at Paris. The approval of the government also is apparent from a semi-official note published today in the Nord Deutscher Allgemeine Zeitung. This article says: The friendly tone in which Pinchon referred to the Franco-German relations is appreciated and reciprocated here. Understandings regarding mooted questions arising from time to time can very well be reached without affecting the rights or interests of any country or entangling in conventions existing between France or Germany or third parties. If this conviction grows on both sides there will be established spontaneously between the two powers more favorable atmosphere which will facilitate to a great degree the settlement of many questions."

RECEIVER FOR TOBACCO
TRUST MAY BE SOUGHT.

Washington, July 9.—It is understood the department of justice has adopted a new and highly important plan in connection with its proceedings against the so-called tobacco trust. After asking the court to issue subpoenas to defendants requiring them to appear and answer the allegations contained in the bill, and asking that the monopoly complained of be declared illegal and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, the department in its petition, which probably will be filed in New York within a few days, will ask the court if in its judgment the interests and the facts as disclosed demand such action, that receivers be appointed to take charge of the business and administer it in harmony with the law.

RUNNING RACES BY CLUB MEMBERS

Will Ride Their Own Mounts
Regardless of Weights

Ben T. Frank Will Take Best String in This Section To Do
Ohio Fairs.

MATINEE MEET NEXT FRIDAY

Dropping the whip and taking up the bat members of the Matinee club will be seen in the saddle Friday at the semi-monthly races, Gus Thompson, Virgil Sherrill, Ben Frank, George Goodman, Zack Bryant and other members of the club will start and great interest is taken in the event. Heretofore all running races seen here have been handled by jockeys, within weight. This race was arranged, regardless of weights, the result of a banter made among club members.

For the first time this season, Directly Boy, said to be one of the fastest horses in the state, will be seen on the course in a regular event. He will pace against Harry A in one mile heats, best two out of three. This will really be the feature race, and Directly Boy will not be turned over to Frank, who has leased him, until after this race. There is much rivalry between members of the club in support of the two starters. Harry A has demonstrated his ability to win from all comers heretofore, but has never gone against Directly Boy. Members of the club are completing the program, and will have it ready for publication by tomorrow.

Will Do County Fairs.

Ben T. Frank, owner of one of the biggest stables of fast race horses in western Kentucky, has added to his string by the purchase of Blackwood and the leasing of Directly Boy from the West Kentucky stock farm, and will take a string of four fast starters into Ohio next week to do the county fairs. Mr. C. G. Harris, trainer for the West Kentucky Stock farm, will assist Mr. Frank in managing the string. While the itinerary has not been definitely arranged, a start will be made at Hicksville, O. Mr. Frank has some of the fastest horses of his class of breed in Kentucky, and feels assured that his starters will win first and second money in a majority of the events he enters.

Frank will carry Ella Mack, Harry A, Directly Boy and Blackwood on the road. They are his four fastest starters, and Harris will do the bulk of the driving. Harris has been training Blackwood and Directly Boy and knows them thoroughly. Loleta, the fast pacer, which broke the track record unopposed with a mark of 2:14, is also being considered by Mr. Frank, and he will decide on her by Saturday.

MEXICO DENIES

Washington, July 9.—The Mexican ambassador, through the secretary in charge of the office at Washington, today said:

Record Fish Catch From Lakes.

Cleveland, O., July 9.—For the last decade there has been a gradual falling off in quantity of fish caught in the great lakes. This year, however, nets of fishing companies all along the chain of lakes have almost invariably been overrunning with catch. The present season promises one of the largest catch of fish recorded in years. The usual output of the lakes for several seasons has been close to 150,000,000 pounds annually.

TRY A SUN WANT AD

Very few people appreciate the great value of the small want ads in the newspapers : : :

Some of the Things The Sun's Have Done

Very few of the people, when reading the want ads, which probably 85 per cent of the readers do, ever realize just what splendid opportunities a three or four line notice will do.

A few days ago a reader of The Sun, who had just installed himself in a flat, purchased new furniture for the entire establishment, had to leave the city, due to a change in his business. "What shall I do with this outfit," he thought. Then he remembered the Sun want ads, put four lines in for a few days and sold all the furniture, at splendid prices, in a few days.

This is but one of the many incidents of a similar nature.

You may not have an outfit of furniture to sell, but you may have something around the house some one may want—an old carpet, or range, some musical instrument, or bit of furniture. A want ad. is a fascinating thing, for nearly every one reads them.

Try a want ad. for yourself, and test its merits. The cost is one cent a word for one insertion or three cents a word for a week, cash with order.

CITY ERECTING ITS OWN POLES TO CARRY FEED WIRES.

One Hundred and Seventy-Three
Poles Average $5 Apiece—
Rewinding Generator.

Supt. J. O. Keebler, of the city lighting plant, is engaged in removing the city feed wires from the East Tennessee Telephone company's poles. The city was using 525 of the telephone company's poles. The change necessitated the erection of 173, thirty-five foot poles and 41 forty-five foot poles at an estimated expense of $1,400. The telephone company notified the city that it would have to cease using its poles several weeks ago.

At first the expense was not estimated so high, but from the pay roll it is found the labor will amount to $800, and as the poles are worth an average of $5 apiece, the expense is greatly increased.

Today Supt. Keebler is shipping the generating machine to a firm at Fort Wayne, Ind., to be rewound. It is expected to be returned in 30 days and then the city will have an auxiliary machine in good condition. The rewinding will cost the city $840, besides the freight charges.

Firecrackers, Skates and Ice Cream.

Mount Holly, N. Anderson, confessed that they had never shot off a firecracker. C. Oakford Gaskill said he had never shot off a gun. Abraham Jones, the eldest of the group, qualified for a place among the conservatives by the assertion that he had never eaten an oyster or banana or tasted ice cream.

Infant Died On Train.

The 8-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hall, of Crab Orchard, Tenn., died near Paris, Tenn., on an N. C. and St. L. train yesterday about noon. The train arrived in Paducah at 1:30 o'clock and the body was taken to the residence of Mrs. R. Vickery, mother of Mrs. Hall, 741 North Tenth street. The child died of summer complaint and the funeral was held at 10 o'clock this morning, the Rev. G. W. Banks officiating. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

GEMS WORTH $25,000 STOLEN

Portion of the State Regalia Is Taken From Castle in Dublin.

Dublin, July 9.—A portion of the state regalia, valued at $250,000, has been stolen from Dublin Castle. The safe in which the regalia was kept was forced. The jewels stolen were those used in the ceremony of investiture in the Order of St. Patrick, including the processional cross, studded with diamonds, and the jeweled sword which is borne in procession at the investiture of the knights, Lord Castletown, knight of St. Patrick, was to have been chief of the state ceremony on the visit of King Edward to Dublin, but it is announced officially that the ceremony will be postponed. Sensational developments are expected.
